The American Council for Technology-Industry Advisory Council, better known as ACT-IAC, said today it has named David Wennergren chief executive, effective May 13.

Wennergren is managing director at Deloitte Consulting. He will succeed Kenneth Allen, who has led ACT-IAC for 14 years.

Wennergren previously was chief operating officer at the Professional Services Council, vice president at CACI International and chief information officer for the Navy. He also served as the Pentagon's deputy chief information officer and as its assistant deputy chief management officer.
